Internet Vacancy Index (IVI)

Regional IVI structure

The regional data in the Internet Vacancy Index are based on 37 "best fit" regions to accommodate data provided by the three job boards (SEEK, CareerOne and Australian JobSearch) that contribute to the count of online vacancies. Each job board uses different regions, requiring the creation of 37 regions that best fit the different regional classifications. It is not possible to assign every job advertisement to a single job location with perfect precision. For this reason, regional data should be treated as indicative of labour demand in each region. Maps of the IVI regions with labels are presented below.
